

Angels and Children

The children born at this time have a very special connection to the angelic realm, we refer to all children born since 1999 as Crystal Children, though there were some born before this time and a few as far back as the 1960's who came here to pave the way for the new Crystal Children that were to be born, to hold a space on the planet for them. These children were born with a 5th dimensional energetic template completely sustained by the new fifth dimensional grid of the earth, they are uniquely attuned to energy, light and crystals. Due to their enlightened consciousness they see, sense and feel on a heart level, they are more attuned to vibration and frequency, allowing them to co-create consciousness through the use of extrasensory perception.

They hold more light and therefore respond more effectively to sound and light technology.. They see and feel their interdimensional reality and live a spiritually elevated consciousness. Though their minds are more universally and cosmically expanded, they feel a deep connection to nature. Since they were born, these children have been living in a world that is only now beginning to create itself. I refer to these children as little earth angels.

Crystal children are light bearers, they hold pure energy, are very honest, and are compelled to seek truth. These children cannot hide their true feelings in order to protect those around them or to accommodate archaic norms, and can often shy away from people who are suppressed or restricted in their thoughts or behaviour.

As a result, those who are connected to Crystal Children are often triggered to clear the pain, insecurity and fear that buried us within the old third dimensional matrix. Being true to yourself, and living by what you preach, will have a resounding impact on the growth of your Crystal Child.

These children hold the flame for spiritual purity and strength, enabling them to innately discern between that which is 'good' and 'bad'. They live by universal principles, trusting their inner guidance and staying true to how they feel, regardless of whether this is confronting to others. These children hold the resources to reveal and clear unbalanced behaviours, thoughts and emotions in others. In this way, Crystal Children are global healers.

Crystal Children are more connected to their heart which is where they run their consciousness from. They are therefore more emotionally open, and are more able to stay true to how they feel, Their strengths, and their vulnerabilities, are always on display. Because they live in a state of oneness with the Earth and Spirit, these children are more humanitarian in nature, and are less judgemental in their perception. They are born with a more unconditional heart.

These crystal children are the angelic realms light ambassadors on earth, they have a unique vibration, energy body and light. They are connected to their light body at all times, something we traditionally only used to connect to at the point of death, but these children are born with this connection. They live constantly plugged in if you like to the world of spirit and the physical realm of Earth. It can be quite hard for them to understand what is going on and what they are experiencing and the angelic realm support them greatly in this. You will often hear crystal children talking about seeing and talking with angels, especially at night time, which is when we are most open to the other realms.

Angels and Animals

I'm guessing pretty much all of us have had a pet at some time or another. What did you learn from having your pet? If you think back you will remember your pet with a warm loving feeling in your heart. Your dog or cat who would wait patiently to greet you with unbounded love and joy at seeing you, jumping up and on you to say hi. Your pet who would wrap themselves around you to go to sleep, even sleeping on or by your bed protecting you while you slept.

The greatest gift your pet gave to you was the experience of unconditional love, you loved your pet and your pet loved you. I believe that our pets and the animal kingdom are an extension of the angelic realm, they come to us so that we can experience unconditional love in the physical realm, so many people think of their pets as their children which I can totally understand, the unassuming, non-judgemental, unconditionally loving being that loves you for you. When we are lonely or sad, our pets sense that and they come and sit by us or put their heads on our knees looking up at us as if to say “whats wrong? I feel your pain, Im here for you now”.

Pets create healing in our emotional plane, cats, dogs, rabbits when they are stroked take on our negative energy and walk it off into the earth. How amazing is that !

The angelic realm sometimes send us messages through the animal kingdom, the robin is one of their special favourites. You may notice when you are outside in nature or in the garden and you are thinking about someone who has died, that a red robin turns up and watches you. This is a message from the angelic realm that your loved one is still around you in spirit, you may even sense your loved one through the robins eyes, it’s a really special feeling.

Believers from the world’s major religions view both angels and animals as creatures made by God, just like human beings. While angels may seem ethereal and animals more down-to earth, they both love people -- angels help care for us, and animals give us companionship. The love they give us often inspires us to love them back. Here’s a look at what various religious texts have to say about angels and animals:

The Catholic Bible: An Archangel Uses a Fish for Healing

In the Book of Tobit, which is part of the Catholic Bible, Archangel Raphael uses an animal -- a fish -- to bring both spiritual healing to a woman named Sarah who was afflicted by a demon and physical healing to a man named Tobit who was blind.

The Bhavagad Gita: A Divine Force Lives Inside Both Angels and Animals

Hindus believe that the same divine force that empowers angelic beings (called devas) also lives inside animals. The Bhagavad Gita declares in chapter 5, verse 18: “An enlightened person -- by perceiving God in all -- looks at a learned person, an outcast, even a cow, an elephant, or a dog with an equal eye.” The angelic devas may manifest in the form of animals when they appear on Earth, Hindus believe, so many statues of the devas in Hindu temples show the devas as animals -- such as tigers or elephants.

The Quran: Angels and Animals Join All of Creation in Worshiping God

In chapter 22 (Al Hajj), verse 18, the Quran declares that angels and animals join human beings and other parts of nature in worshiping the God who made them: “Have you not seen that before God prostrate all that are in the heavens and all that are in the earth, and the sun, and the moon, and the stars, and the mountains, and the trees, and the beasts, and a great number among mankind?”

The Hadith: Angels May Appear to Animals

The Hadith (a collection of the Muslim prophet Muhammad’s teachings) says in Sahih Bukhari 4:522 that animals may see angels: “When you hear the crowing of cocks, ask for Allah’s Blessings, for (their crowing indicates that) they have seen an angel...”.

Angels and Relationships

We will look at how the angels work with us in our many different types of relationships, be that a friendship, a family relationship or a partner relationship. The amazing Doreen Virtue describes it best!

“The angels can help you with romance, whether you’re in a committed relationship or single. If you’re looking for your soul mate, the “romance angels” can help you find your special someone. A powerful method for invoking the angels’ help is to find a quiet location where you won’t be interrupted, and write a letter that starts like this: “Dear Guardian Angels of My Soul Mate,” Then, pour out your heart to these angels in the body of the letter. It doesn’t matter whether you know who your soul mate is, because the angels do. Then conclude the letter by saying something like: “I know that my soul mate is looking for me with the same fervour as I am looking for him/her. Thank you for guiding us to meet, love, and experience a joyful and harmonious relationship based upon mutual respect, integrity, shared interests, and passionate romance.” The romance angels can also infuse new passion into existing relationships. Ask them to help you and your partner recover your playful side, which is an important ingredient of romance. The angels say that many couples become overly focused on work and responsibilities, and they need to make time for playful and loving interactions. The romance angels can help you find time for this important endeavour, and also give you the energy to carry through.

Relationships with Friends

Our relationships sometimes change when we commit to a spiritual path, which includes working with the angels. If you have a friendship that began when you were focused on the material world, you may feel yourself pulling away from that friend as your focus becomes more spirit-centred.

For one thing, your interests may grow apart. For another, the Law of Attraction Law of says that we’re attracted to people who are on the same wavelength as we are. So, someone who’s focused on love and peace won’t be attracted to someone whose focus is fear. Ask your angels to help you through these shifts and changes in your relationships. Ask them to bring peaceful resolutions to any relationships that are ending. The angels can also bring you wonderful new friends, if you’ll simply ask.

Relationships with Family Members

In the same way, your family interactions may change as you become more spiritually focused. If you come from a more traditional family, they may at first worry about your spirituality. Don’t try to convince or convert anyone to your new way of thinking. The best way to handle this sort of situation is to be peaceful and happy. In that way, you’re a walking advertisement for the benefits of living on the spiritual path. As people notice your peacefulness, they’ll soon ask you about the secret to your happiness. The angels guide us to release resentment and anger as an avenue to peace. Most of us have experienced pain in our relationships with family, friends, and lovers.

The angels ensure that this pain doesn't ruin our present and future health and happiness. If someone has performed an action that you feel is unforgivable, the angels won't ask you to change your mind and say, "What they did is okay." Instead, the angels want you to release the poisonous anger within your mind and body. When we hold resentment, we attract similar relationships and situations to us.

Releasing Resentment

If you're tired of unhealthy relationship patterns, the likely culprit is unforgiveness toward a family member. The word forgiveness is a synonym for "releasing toxins," and replacing them with health and peace. The angels can help you with this, if you'll ask. One effective way to release emotional toxins is to call upon Archangels Michael and Jeremiel as you're falling asleep. That's because when you're sleeping, you're more open to angelic intervention. When you're awake, your ego's fear can block the angels' help.

Say to the archangels, either silently or aloud: "I ask that you clear away any old anger, pain, resentment, judgments, bitterness, or unforgiveness from my mind, body, and emotions. I am willing to exchange pain for peace. I now release to you anything that may be blocking my awareness of peace, especially within my relationships." When you awaken, you'll notice a positive shift. It doesn't matter whether you recall your dream interactions with the archangels or not, as their work is on the unconscious level. The angels can clear old issues with people who are living or deceased. These healings don't mean that you have to reignite a relationship with the person. The intention is to clear the path for you to feel love, peace, and harmony in all areas of your life.

Relationship Healing with the Angels

You can heal misunderstandings by talking to the other person's guardian angels as well. Although the angels can't violate anyone's free will, they will intervene into any situation that's affecting your peace—including relationship woes. In these situations, close your eyes and centre yourself through breath. Then, hold the intention of talking with the other person's guardian angels. You can't make a mistake and do this incorrectly, as the intention is more important than the method you use. Then, pour out your heart (either silently, in a letter, or aloud) to that person's angels. Tell them about your fears, anger, disappointments, and desires.

Next, ask the angels to bring about peace in the relationship. Don't tell the angels how to do so, or you'll slow or miss the answer to your prayer. Allow the infinite creative wisdom of God's Divine Mind to come up with an ingenious solution that will delight everyone involved." Doreen Virtue Angels Blog 101
